COURSE DESCRIPTION

The body is a gateway to wisdom that words cannot touch. This training is an invitation to come home—not to who you think you should be, but to the truth of who you already are. Through the practice of Yin yoga, breathwork, and somatic awareness, we learn that healing is not something we force—it is something we feel our way into.

WisDOM of the Body™ Yin Yoga, Breathwork & Embodiment Training (YBT) is a 50-hour immersive teacher training designed to integrate the art of Yin yoga with breathwork, somatics, and deep embodiment practices. In this training, we do not approach Yin yoga for rest—but for reckoning, reverence, and return. We work through what the body remembers and breathe through what it holds. It is for anyone who feels called to slow down, listen deeply, and reconnect with their body's natural wisdom.

At its core, this training is about returning to the body. Everybody breathes, and everybody has the capacity to reconnect with the body's wisdom, no matter where they start. This training is a journey into embodiment, transformation, and the deep listening that allows us to be truly present with ourselves and others.

COURSE OBJECTIVES & LEARNING OUTCOMES

This immersive training is designed to:

- Reclaim Yin as a Practice of Presence: Learn to approach Yin yoga not just for rest, but as a space for reckoning, reverence, and return.
- Deepen Inner Listening: Cultivate embodied awareness and trust in the body's natural wisdom through stillness, sensation, and breath.
- Integrate Breathwork & Somatics: Explore how breath and subtle movement support emotional release, nervous system regulation, and healing.
- Understand the Body as a Site of Memory: Recognize how trauma, emotion, and life experience live in the body—and how to meet them with compassion.
- Develop an Embodied Teaching Voice: Design Yin yoga and breath-centered practices rooted in intuition, presence, and trauma-informed care.
- Hold Space for Others: Build the capacity to guide individuals and groups through slow, supportive, and transformational practices.
- Return to Yourself: Anchor your personal practice in deep listening, spiritual alignment, and the sacred intelligence of your own body.

Upon completion, participants will receive a certificate of completion. The certification ensures a total of twenty (50) continuing education credits (CECs) with Yoga Alliance with each module with its own respective credits.
